Press Release

Texas Home Buyers win again!

In response to the need for a Texas Association for the Texas Inspection Industry...that association is finally a reality!

Houston Texas, April 28, 2008 Announced today is the creation of the first association to represent the entire Texas inspection industry. The association is based on representing the inspectors of the State of Texas. In creating this association it was apparent that that is also good for the home buying consumer of Texas. This is the reason that the inspection industry exists, to help buyers, in their home-buying process, to understand the condition of the proposed property.

4400 State Licensed Inspectors help the home-buying public with their quest toward the purchase of the American dream...

This small but dedicated group of professional inspectors, tackle the daunting task of helping millions of Texas consumers determine the condition of their intended purchases so they can make an informed buying decision.

The Texas Professional Real Estate Inspectors Association has set its goals of:

1. With ever changing methods and materials, TPREIA intends to update the inspection industry consistently and provide on-going education for the benefit of its membership and finally the home-buying public.
2. Market its membership to the public such that the consumer can have adequate protection during the home purchasing period.
3. To monitor and impact Texas and Federal legislation whenever possible and to update membership and the public of pending legislation on inspection and real estate issues.
